

Earthlings are weird. We've been abducting you and sticking probes into your orifices for over fifty of your earth years but we just can't figure you out. We've managed to ascertain that you come in two distinct varieties but beyond the biological ones, we don't know what the differences are between 'women' and 'men'. You'll have to explain...

What are men like?

And women?

Find out about the work of Maccoby and Jacklin (1974) and Shaffer (1993). Which of these differences did they find evidence for?
