

Using Animals in Psychological Research

Using your own knowledge or another source, identify three studies in which animals have been used. They should be from three separate areas of psychology. For each study, give a very brief description of what was involved. Then explain what we learned from it. Finally, outline the possible objections that people might raise to it.

Study	What we learned	Possible objections

Write a brief summary of (a) the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act, 1986 and (b) the current BPS guidelines on using animals. Would the research studies you have chosen be allowed now?
